- c. T1 Red Chestnut Height - 14m Crown Spread - 7m DBH - 650mm Work required : 15% crown thin Reason : Dense crown with crossing branches a light crown thin would remove unproductive growth from the crown. 2m from ground level main stem decay point, a light thin would help alleviate stress in adverse weather conditions. T4 Larch Height - 14m Crown spread - 6m DBH - 450mm Work required : 0.5m Crown reduction and 15% crown thin Reason : Dense crown and a few crossing internal branches. Removing these will prevent failure in the future. T & T6 Scots Pine Height - 15m Crown spread - 5m DBH - 400mm Work required : 0.5m crown reduction and 15% crown thin Reason : Dense crown and a few crossing internal branches. Removing these will prevent failure in the future. Both trees are showing signs of decline and shedding a large amount of needles. I would suspect the recent dry summers are starting to take their toll on these Pines.
